SALVETE AMICI!

As I look back on the 1982 Convention, I am still excited about the spirit and unity shown by the delegates. Nearly twenty chapters were represented this year, and a number of chapters drove great distances to come to Gettysburg. This spirit was not only shown at the convention, but also in the increased participation in the translation contests this year.

I am optimistic over Eta Sigma Phi's prospects this year. We are financially strong, and we have just added two new chapters to our ranks. It is not too early to make plans for the coming year in your chapter. Consider planning joint activities with other, nearby chapters. Also think about sending a delegation to the 1983 National Convention in Monmouth, Illinois, April 14-16, 1983. Attendance is well worth the time and effort, because the Convention is such a valuable and enjoyable experience. The Gamma Omicron Chapter of Monmouth College has generously offered to be our convention host. Gamma Omicron has had a perfect attendance record at conventions since they received their charter in 1956 and also has an unbroken record of contributions to the Endowment Fund.

At this time I would also like to add a few words of welcome to the two newest additions to our society—the Epsilon Omicron Chapter at the University of Massachusetts at Amherst and the Epsilon Pi Chapter of Concordia College in Moorhead, Minnesota. I wish them the best of luck with their new chapters.

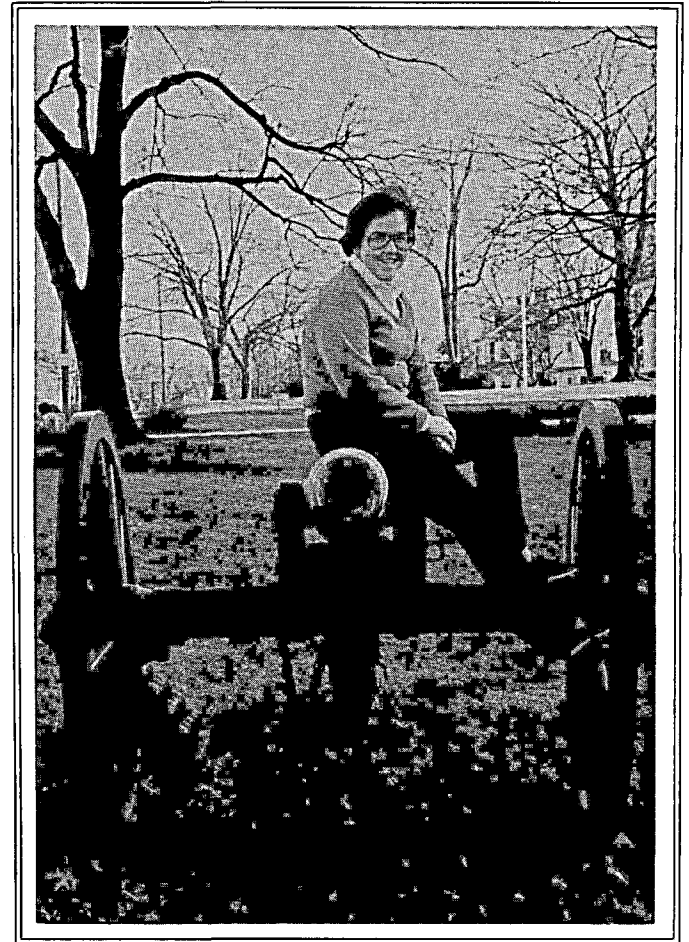

Valete,

Polly Ann Magee
Megas Prytanis

Our new president, P.A. Magee, sent to the Nuntius a brief biographical sketch so that our readers could get to know her better:

"My study of Latin began during my high school years at the Academy of the Holy Cross in Kensington, Maryland, my hometown. A dedicated teacher helped me discover the beauty of the Latin language. In high school I was an active participant in the Latin and Spanish Clubs, the National Honor Society, and the Maryland State and National Junior Classical Leagues. During these years I won several awards in Maryland State JCL competitions and on ACL examinations.

I have continued my study of Latin at Gettysburg College in Gettysburg, Pennsylvania. I am a senior majoring in Latin and minoring in Spanish. I hope to teach Latin at the secondary school level after graduation, and so I am also in the secondary education program. For my work in Latin during my freshman year I was not only honored with election to Eta Sigma Phi but also was the co-recipient, along with our local prytanis Lynn Stetler of the Samuel Garver Latin Prize for outstanding progress in Latin.

My hobbies and interests include photography and classical music. At Gettysburg I am a member of Sigma Kappa sorority, the Photography Club, and the staff of the college yearbook for which I take photographs. I have served as chrysothylax of Alpha Pi Chapter for the past two years and also served as convention chairman. I am honored to have been elected Megas Prytanis and eagerly look forward to serving Eta Sigma Phi on a national level."

CONTEST
ANNOUNCEMENT

1) THIRTY-FOURTH ANNUAL GREEK
TRANSLATION CONTEST

Advanced: This contest will consist of the sight translation of a passage in Greek which is considered within the comprehension of students beyond the second year of college Greek.

Intermediate: 1) This contest will consist of the sight translation of a passage in Greek which is considered within the comprehension of students in the second year of college Greek. 2) This contest will consist of the sight translation of a passage of Koine Greek which is considered within the comprehension of students in the second year of college Greek.

2) THIRTY-THIRD ANNUAL LATIN
TRANSLATION CONTEST

Advanced: This contest will consist of the sight translation of a passage in Latin which is considered within the comprehension of students beyond the second year of college Latin.

Intermediate: This contest will consist of the sight translation of a passage in Latin which is considered within the comprehension of students in the second year of college Latin.

3) SEVENTEENTH ANNUAL LATIN PROSE COMPOSITION CONTEST

This contest will consist of the translation of a passage of English into Latin. This contest is intended for advanced students of Latin who are in their third or fourth year of college Latin. Contestants may use a dictionary (without paradigms), e.g. Cassell's.

Prizes

Cash awards will be made only to contestants who participate in Advanced competition or in Latin Composition. First prize in each contest will be $50.00; second prize $40.00; and third prize $30.00. Names of all winners will appear in the Nuntius.

Eligibility

The contests are open to students in classes in Greek and/or Latin in colleges and universities which have active chapters of Eta Sigma Phi Fraternity.

Written notice of a desire to participate postmarked not later than February 14, 1983, must be sent to the Executive Secretary, Professor Brent M. Froberg, Department of Classics, University of South Dakota, Vermillion, South Dakota 57069. Materials will be mailed by him in time for the contests to be administered simultaneously in all competing schools during the week of February 21, 1983. Contest papers in all of the contests are to be forwarded to the Executive Secretary and must be postmarked not later than February 28, 1983. Each paper must be accompanied by an identification page, which will be supplied in advance of the contest. There is a limit of three papers from any one school in each tier of each contest.

Decision as to place in the various contests will be made by members of the Eta Sigma Phi Committee on Contests, who will identify the papers by code designation only.

Eta Sigma Phi Medals

Eta Sigma Phi medals awarded to honor students in second and fourth-year Latin help to promote the study of Latin in high school and give Eta Sigma Phi an excellent contact with high school students of the classics. Chapters can use them as prizes for contests or as a way to recognize achievement.

Two silver medals are available: the large size (1½ inches) at $13.00 and the small size (¾ inches) at $7.50. A bronze medal (¾ inches) is available for $4.00. Silver medals are excellent prizes for fourth-year students while bronze medals make good prizes for students in their second year of Latin. The smaller, silver medals could serve as prizes for third-year students.

If you or your chapter would like to award these medals, they may be ordered from Professor Brent M. Froberg at the University of South Dakota. Checks should be payable to Eta Sigma Phi Medal Fund and should accompany the order; please add $1.00 total per order to cover the costs of postage and handling. Orders should be placed at least three weeks before the date desired.

Eileen Torrence of Gamma Alpha Chapter, Indiana State University, is this year's national treasurer. She sent the Nuntius a few words about herself.

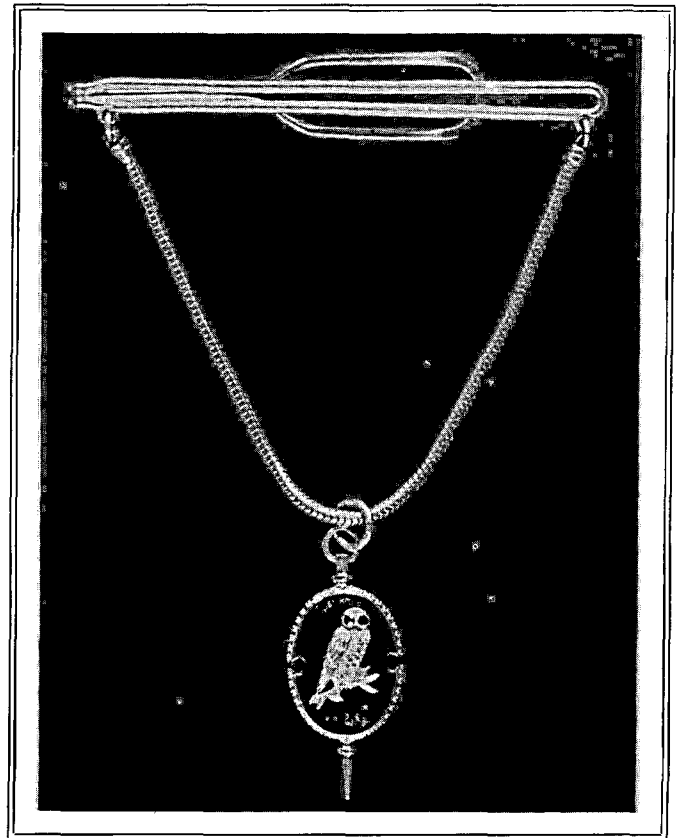

"I am a sophomore majoring in Latin and minoring in both history and English at Indiana State University, Terre Haute, Indiana.

My involvement in classical studies took root when I began Latin in my freshman year in high school. From then on, my interest grew, and I eventually became secretary and president of Latin club. The club awarded me a one hundred dollar scholarship upon graduation for maintaining an "A" average in Latin for eight semesters. Because I lived in Terre Haute, I was also awarded a certificate of excellence for area high school students by the Gamma Alpha Chapter of Eta Sigma Phi, of which I was later to become a member.

At Indiana State, I was privileged to receive the Gertrude Ewing Scholarship intended for Latin majors or minors who plan to teach. I certainly hope to teach eventually at the college level. I am also a member of Alpha Lambda Delta, national honorary organization for freshmen who have maintained a 3.5 or better grade average.

Other interests of mine include all outdoor sports: swimming, bicycling, and golf in particular. I was a member of the Indiana State Women's golf team in the fall of 1981. I also enjoy reading and sketching."

Tie Clasp To Be Awarded

This tie clasp, pictured above, will be awarded to a member of Eta Sigma Phi, a senior man, who intends to continue his study of Classics in a graduate school in the 1983-84 academic year. A gold, snake chain holds the official owl key of Eta Sigma Phi as a pendant.

Dr. Laurence Welch, Rolling Hills, California, donated the tie clasp to encourage a member of Eta Sigma Phi in his graduate school studies. Lora Holland of Gamma Sigma Chapter (University of Texas) won the Eta Sigma Phi pin designated by Dr. Welch for a woman who would continue the study of Classics on the graduate level. Lora Holland is in her second year of graduate work at the University of Michigan.

The scholarship committee of Eta Sigma Phi will select the winner of the tie clasp. Each applicant should have sent, by April 10, one confidential letter of recommendation from a professor of Classics and one copy of his undergraduate transcript to: Professor Cecelia Luschnig, Department of Foreign Languages, University of Idaho, Moscow, Idaho 83843.

New Contest Offered in Greek

At the Eta Sigma Phi Convention in Gettysburg, the contest committee discussed the idea of running a second, intermediate level contest for those students whose main concentration is in Koine Greek. The committee agreed that the differences between Attic and Koine Greek make it difficult for students who have studied primarily Koine to participate in the contest. Because there are a number of small schools, especially church-related schools, which offer most of their work in Greek in Koine, this additional contest should increase the total number of contest participants. Requests for contests should, therefore, specify which intermediate contest is wanted.

Bill de Grummond Remembers . . .

Eta Sigma Phi has played a large part in my life. As an undergraduate at Louisiana State University I was not a Classics major, however. My major was French, and I took Latin, and later Greek, only as background courses to strengthen my primary interest in Romance languages. I loved the classical languages from the start, though, and was a member of Eta Sigma Phi by my junior year.

In the spring of 1956, my senior year, the national convention of Eta Sigma Phi was held in Birmingham. The LSU chapter had not been represented at the convention for several years, and the adviser, Professor Thomas Corcoran (now at Tufts University), decided that, since the drive from Baton Rouge to Birmingham was not too formidable, this would be a good opportunity for a carload of students to go to the convention. Dr. Corcoran himself did all the driving; I was one of the four students who went with him.

The convention was very rewarding and lots of fun. We met a number of other students from across the country and enjoyed seeing the campus of Birmingham Southern, the host chapter. The meetings, papers, discussions, election campaigns, and exchanges of ideas were all worthwhile and pleasant. And it was exciting to meet Professor Butts, who had been Executive Secretary for many years and who, on this occasion, was hosting the convention as well.

But it was the ride back to Baton Rouge after the convention which really changed my life. Dr. Corcoran had decided to drive back at night. The other three students were soon sound asleep, but I decided that I would stay awake and try to keep Dr. Corcoran company.

We talked through the night. Latin, studies, and school in general were natural subjects for discussion. At that time all of the foreign languages offered at LSU, both ancient and modern, were taught in the same department. Thus Dr. Corcoran and I were both in the Department of Foreign Languages, though he taught Classics and I was studying French. In trying to keep the conversation going while he drove, I asked him why the department had graduate assistants teaching modern languages but none teaching Latin or Greek. He told me that none of the graduate students was interested in teaching ancient languages or qualified to do so.

I thought no more about that conversation for over a year. I had applied for an assistantship at LSU, intending to get a master's in Romance languages there; but I had also applied for a scholarship to France. As it turned out, I got the scholarship, studied French in France in 1956-1957, then returned to LSU in the fall of '57 to continue my Romance studies at home.

The first thing the department chairman said to me, after a word or two of greeting, was, "Well, I understand that you would like to teach Latin for us instead of French." I was dumbfounded. I asked him, as politely as I could, what gave him that idea. He grinned and said that Dr. Corcoran had told him so. Then I remembered our conversation. I have always wondered whether Dr. Corcoran really misunderstood me, or whether he was just promoting Latin!

The idea was novel to me—and frightening, but also exciting. I loved Latin, and I felt sure that I would never get another chance to teach it, whereas I had a lifetime of teaching French ahead of me. I wasn't at all certain that I was capable of teaching Latin, even the introductory course; but when I asked Professor Paul G. Moorhead, under whom I had had most of my Latin and Greek courses, he assured me that I knew enough Latin. I didn't trust my judgment, but I never questioned Dr. Moorhead's.

For three years, while I continued doing graduate work in Romance languages, I taught Latin. And I continued taking courses in Latin and Greek and even set about turning myself into a classicist. For I gradually came to realize that I would never be happy not teaching Latin.

During those years when I was teaching Latin at LSU, I also served as Eta Sigma Phi adviser (Dr. Corcoran had left LSU). We were a very busy chapter. Besides many local academic and social activities, we drove to national conventions in West Virginia and in Wisconsin. It was through Eta Sigma Phi that I really got to know Nancy Thomson, who in time became my wife—so I am not exaggerating when I say that Eta Sigma Phi has been important in my life!

It was Dr. Moorhead who encouraged me to apply for the Eta Sigma Phi summer scholarships to both Rome and Athens; I was amazed when I found out that I had been given the one to Greece. Though single when I applied, I was married when I received the award. Professor Gertrude Smith, Honorary President of Eta Sigma Phi, was then director of the summer session at the American School of Classical Studies in Athens. She graciously made special arrangements for Nancy's late admission, and we spent a wonderful summer in Greece. The travel and study in Greece as the Eta Sigma Phi Scholar for 1961 were as exciting and rewarding, academically, intellectually, and personally, as any event in my whole life. And it was lots of fun, besides. I would urge anyone who is eligible for an Eta Sigma Phi scholarship to apply.

After Greece my wife and I went to Chapel Hill to study. We both hold doctoral degrees from the University of North Carolina and are now both teaching in the Classics Department of Florida State University in Tallahassee. One of the things I have enjoyed about FSU (we've been there since 1968) is the opportunity to teach widely differing subject matter, yet to keep returning to my first love, Vergil. I have taught courses ranging from Sanskrit to Twentieth-Century Humanities (though I have still never taught French); my publication has ranged from Egyptian influence in the Vapheio Cups to a note on John Updike. But I always come back to Vergil.

My four children range in age from 14 to 7. It is from them that I learned to love a new pastime, running. In the last few years I have run many road races. On December 12, 1981 (while serving as visiting professor at the University of the South, Sewanee, Tennessee), I ran my second marathon. My time, 3 hours, 12 minutes, and 52 seconds, is no world record, but it gives me high rank among American Classics professors over 45!

Editor's Note:

Professor de Grummond has been the adviser of Eta Chapter of Florida State University for many years. He served a term (1972-1974) as a Trustee of Eta Sigma Phi, and his chapter has been the host recently for two, memorable National Conventions (1975 & 1980). His article here is the second in a series of articles written by former winners of Eta Sigma Phi's Summer Scholarships.

RES GESTAE

Alpha Pi Chapter Gettysburg College

The Alpha Pi Chapter doubled in size this year with the addition of eleven new members. Our traditional banquet at the Lamp Post Restaurant followed the initiation ceremony. Our after-dinner speaker, this year from our English Department, was Professor David Hair, a specialist in classical rhetoric. Our annual Christmas party at the home of Dr. Pavlantos highlighted December. In January several of our members went to Greece and Rome with Drs. Pavlantos and Kalke for a course on the ancient city. The members left on campus held a doughnut sale. We plan to hold our customary end-of-the-year celebration in May.

Alpha Upsilon Chapter The College of Wooster

The Alpha Upsilon Chapter of the College of Wooster in Ohio continues in its purpose of providing a classical atmosphere for the campus. Alpha Upsilon celebrated the newly-attained knowledge of members returning from a summer in Greece by throwing a whiz-bang party for them. Later, James Dengate of the A.I.A. lectured on underwater archaeology, and the chapter sponsored a reception for this exciting event. After a winter of hibernation in which the Alpha Upsilon Chapter limited its activities to sponsoring two movies for the campus, Euripides's Iphigenia and Sophocles's Oedipus the King, we had an incredible spring including discussions with the visiting Professor W.B. Stanford, who is teaching a course on Homer's Odyssey at the college. Many new members have been invited to join our chapter, and initiation promises to be arista!

Ann West,
Prytanis

Beta Alpha Chapter University of South Dakota

We have become a more competitive group since our last convention. Already this year, members of our chapter, present and prospective, have competed in the ACL National Greek Contest (one won a second-place, red ribbon), all of the Eta Sigma Phi Contests, and the National Quiz Bowl Regionals in Mankato, Minnesota. It is too early to report our success in the Latin and Greek contests of Eta Sigma Phi, but we are pleased to report that our Quiz Bowl team won second place in a field of twelve top colleges and universities in the upper middle west. Our team was made up of students all of whom had taken a course in Classics at one time or another. I had the pleasure of being a member of that team.

Later this year we plan to use a Quiz Bowl format for a certamen at the home of Professor and Mrs. Froberg. We are looking for eight intrepid students willing to field questions in all areas of Classical studies. Several of the students in our Classics program are now completing certification requirements for teaching Latin on the secondary level. We are pleased by renewed interest in teaching and by the consequent increase in the number of Classics majors at USD.

Our year will end with our banquet and initiation ceremony. Over the years we have looked forward to this special evening. Often Professor Grace Beede, our long-time sponsor and Honorary Editor of the Nuntius, is back from her winter home in California and is able to join us.

We look forward to attending next year's 55th annual Convention.

Steve Dirksen,
Pyloros

Beta Theta Hampden-Sydney College

The Beta Theta Chapter, located at Hampden-Sydney College in Virginia, has had a productive year. Last spring we initiated five members, and this fall two new members were initiated.

At our fall initiation we revived an old Hampden-Sydney tradition which had been dormant for several years. Our initiates dressed up in togas to read passages from the Odyssey in Greek or from the Aeneid in Latin. The readings took place before our venerable bell tower during a change of classes. This gave us visibility on campus.

Last fall, Beta Theta Chapter experienced a Greek dinner cooked by a friend of our chapter, Thalia Pantelidis. Dr. Graves Thompson graciously gave us the use of his home once again.

The central event of this semester was an informal evening with Dr. Michael Grant, sponsored by the Beta Theta Chapter. Professor Grant, who was Pratt Visiting Professor of Classics at Hampden-Sydney this semester, taught a three-week seminar on Masterpieces of Greek Drama. Our chapter invited the Delta Alpha Chapter from Randolph-Macon Woman's College in Lynchburg, Virginia, to attend the evening with Dr. Grant and assisted them with transportation.

While Dr. Grant was here, he presented two lectures, one on The Fall of Rome and the other on Cleopatra and the Caesars, which is the subject of his most recent book. These lectures were very well attended by classicists from all over Virginia, in one case filling the lecture hall to overflowing. This year we look forward to a good class of initiates to insure our well-being in the future.

Beta Iota Chapter Wake Forest University

The Beta Iota Chapter met three times in the 1981-82 school year. Our first meeting, in the fall, featured a slide lecture presented by Dr. Harry Titus, entitled "Vitruvius: Theory and Practice." Dr. Titus is a visiting professor in the Art Department. After the lecture, we enjoyed the opportunity to chat with Dr. Titus and to meet old friends again.

In an effort to reach out to the Wake Forest community, we invited Latin students from a nearby high school, as well as interested students and faculty from Wake, to join us for our second meeting. Dr. Robert Ulery and Dr. Bruce MacQueen, both professors here at Wake, re-created for us the great debate between Caesar and Cato found in Sallust's Bellum Catilinae. The audience was asked to participate by playing the part of the Roman Senate; in a repeat of history, the majority of the "Senate" voted for Cato by walking to his side of the room.

Our final meeting was the happy occasion of initiating ten new members into our chapter. An informal dinner followed at the house of our faculty adviser, Dr. John Andronica. We are pleased with the results of this past year, and we look forward to an equally satisfying year coming up.

Andrew H. Wakefield,

Beta Kappa Chapter
College of Notre Dame of Maryland

The Beta Kappa Chapter has met three times so far during the 1981-82 school year. At our first meeting in October, elections were held. Also Sister Theresa Lamy was introduced as our new moderator, and a tribute was given to Sister Thérèse Marie Dougherty for her dedication and service throughout her years as moderator.

We have also been involved with helping our "next-door neighbor," Loyola College, to revive its Eta Sigma Phi chapter. We hope to be able to work together to plan future activities. Several Beta Kappa members recently attended a lecture at Loyola given by Professor George Luck from Johns Hopkins University on the Aeneid of Vergil.

At our past two meetings, plans for our upcoming annual Latin Day Competition for local high school students were discussed and made final. It is scheduled for April 24, 1982, and promises to be an exciting day for all involved.

Beta Kappa hopes to induct six new members on March 21, 1982. The speaker for the occasion will be Professor Robert Seagraves of the Classics Department of Loyola College. Members of Beta Kappa will also be joining the Modern Language Honor Society at a wine and cheese party at Notre Dame on March 24, 1982.

For our final meeting of the school year, a dinner meeting is scheduled for May 6, 1982, at which time tribute will be paid to our members who will graduate this year ('82). We are encouraged by the growth in our membership and look forward to a fruitful convention and a successful year.

Maryellen O'Shea,

Beta Sigma
Marquette University

The Beta Sigma Chapter worked hard to put on some notable and worthwhile classical events. Under the guidance of our adviser, Dr. Patricia Marquardt, and our Imperatrix, Georgia Diamantopolous, our first event was a lecture on Egyptian heiroglyphics. Dr. James Shey, Professor of Classics from the University of Wisconsin-Milwaukee, introduced our chapter to heiroglyphics in a unique way (or maybe not so unique!?)—handouts. Participants were given handouts and actually worked with heiroglyphics and put them into simple statements.

In December we found time for fun and games with the celebration of the Saturnalia. The theme of this event was the Roman Banquet. Chapter members and mothers of chapter members (everyone known moms) pretended that they were Roman cooks. Such delicacies as fish Venesian, mushrooms "in vino", pumpkin porridge, and honeyed wine were featured. What added to the excitement was the presence of the Milwaukee Journal (the pillar of unbiased journalism) which had a feature story on our chapter and the Roman Banquet. This article was supplemented with a picture of Dr. Marquardt and two students in ancient garb.

We returned to pure scholarship, and another member of our Classics Department, Professor Peter Theis, gave an interesting lecture on Latin Palaeography coupled with a look at the beautiful and world-famous Book of Kells.

Looking into the future, our chapter plans to hold a high school Latin contest to promote classical studies through competition. Finally we are planning more fun: an evening of Grecian delights.
