This year the view from Eta Sigma Phi and the world of Classics looks out across a changing scene. Power changes hands daily and values, once held to be sacred, fall before the march of "progress." Our nation has almost completed its brief homage to history and the bicentennial. The rhetoric will soon leave 1776 and look again to 2000. As members of a society which holds the promotion of Classical Studies and the appreciation of the Graeco-Roman Culture as honorable goals we must ask ourselves where we fit in such a modern world. There is no pat answer to such a question nor to the myriad of similar questions raised by the contradiction of Classics and progress. I personally struggle with these questions daily, fighting both apathy and frustration. This is not to say that there are no answers, merely that they are very difficult to articulate in the terms of our modern society.

We should, in this year, take a good look around and see just what is taking place in our nation. Many colleges and universities are dropping their language requirements and Classics, along with other languages and culture studies are suffering. If our pledge "to encourage classical scholarship and enhance the appreciation of Greek and Roman culture," is to have any meaning, then we must do something more than sit passively and watch the world pass us by. I would like to suggest that each chapter find active ways this year of promoting those ideals to which we have pledged ourselves. I would also suggest that each individual member think about and consider seriously the relationship of Classics to the modern world and then spend the time to develop his answer into an expressible form. It is up to those who are lovers of the "Greek tradition" to continue that tradition; those who are not, will not.

Plans for our national convention are proceeding well. I would like to ask all who plan to attend to read the minutes of last year's convention and to study the amendments and proposals. Our last convention was truly a serious and successful affair, enjoyable for all who came. I extend a hearty and cordial invitation to all for the coming convention and wish each chapter bona fortuna in their work this year.

Cum fraterno amore,
J. Stephen Freeman
Megas Prytanis

I am currently a senior at Furman University, majoring in Classical Languages. My interests in Classical Studies are primarily in the areas of comparative mythology and philology. My interests, however, are not limited to Classical literature and folklore; I also am very devoted to Modern Foreign languages, having studied German and Russian and with plans to tackle French and Italian as soon as possible. My primary hobby is the study of Jungian Psychology and the works of various mystical writers. I have maintained a standard of excellence in my academic studies, with a 4.0 average and membership in Phi Beta Kappa. My most pleasing accomplishment has been a paper which I presented at the Southern Regional convention of the AIA on "King Minos of Crete", which paper I am now hoping to have published. I am married to a very lovely lady who teaches English in secondary school and who also provides me with most of my encouragement and inspiration. We are very active members at Christ Church Episcopal where we lead the teen-age youth group.

I see the study of Classics as a study of the conscious attempt of man to express the depths of his soul, boundless, mysterious and beautiful. I intend to enter graduate school and study for a Phd in Classics, my ultimate goal being to teach college men and women to read and appreciate Classical literature—the literature itself, I am confident, will do everything else that I could hope for them.

What an interesting convention we had in Nashville! It was splendid to see old and new friends and to have our beloved Dr. Gertrude Smith Greenwood speak to us. The program was fine as were the local arrangements. Some of us even lingered on until Sunday to attend local happenings! We very much appreciate all the efforts that went into our stay.

Now we are again involved in our local affairs. I hope that each chapter will do what it can to be active and to help reactivate nearby chapters which may have become inactive. I stand ready to assist our officers to help new chapters get started as well. It was a pleasure to welcome Kent State into our ranks this past year.

Medal sales were again brisk, though the large silver was not as popular because the cost rose so much. Our fiscal year is now the calendar year, and you will note elsewhere in this issue that we still have enough on hand for this year. Orders come generally in the spring, and the sales from last spring will show on the report after this calendar year is over.

I hope that more people will enter the contests and the scholarship competition. There are excellent opportunities here and a real benefit to membership in our society.

Please remember that the Balfour Company does not send certificates from May 1-September 1 until later in September, so that orders and dues should reach me before May 1 if at all possible.

Start thinking now about attending the national convention! Several chapters are at the brink of becoming delinquent if they do not send representatives to the next annual meeting. Please check our handbook on these matters. I hope that several students will also be interested in running for office. It is a great pleasure for me to work with these fine young people, and I look forward to the continued cooperation of all of you this academic year!

Respectfully,
R. L. Den Adel
Executive Secretary

CONTEST ANNOUNCEMENT

1) TWENTY-EIGHTH ANNUAL GREEK TRANSLATION CONTEST

This contest will consist of the sight translation of a passage in Greek which is considered within the comprehension of students in the second year or above of the study of Greek.

2) TWENTY-SEVENTH ANNUAL LATIN TRANSLATION CONTEST

This contest will consist of the sight translation of a passage in Latin chosen in reference to students who have had two or more years of Latin in high school (or the equivalent in college) and at least one or more semesters in college.

3) ELEVENTH ANNUAL LATIN PROSE COMPOSITION CONTEST

This contest will consist of the translation of a passage of English into Latin. This contest is intended for advanced students of Latin who are in their third or fourth year of college Latin.

PRIZES

First prize in each contest will be $35.00; second prize $25.00; and third prize $15.00.

ELIGIBILITY

The above contests are open only to students in classes in Greek and/or Latin in colleges and universities which have active chapters of Eta Sigma Phi Fraternity.

Written notice of a desire to participate, postmarked not later than January 14, 1977, must be sent to the Executive Secretary, Professor Raymond L. Den Adel, Department of Classics, Rockford College, Rockford Illinois 61101. Materials will be mailed by him in time for the contests to be administered simultaneously in all competing schools during the week of February 7, 1977. Contest papers in all of the above contests are to be forwarded to the Executive Secretary and must be postmarked not later than February 18, 1977. Each paper must be accompanied by an identification page, which will be supplied in advance of the contest. There is a limit of three papers from any one school in each contest.

Decision as to place in the various contests will be made by members of the Eta Sigma Phi Committee of Contests, who will identify the papers by code designation only.

COLGATE IN BRIEF

When Colgate University was established in 1819 by the thirteen founders, it was known as the Hamilton Literary and Theological Institution, and prepared young men for the Baptist Ministry. In 1846 it became Madison University and in 1890 was renamed Colgate University. Since then, Colgate has evolved into what today is a highly selective liberal arts college providing an integrated educational experience in the major areas of knowledge. Primarily an undergraduate institution offering the Bachelor of Arts degree, Colgate also has a small graduate program leading to the Master of Arts and Master of Arts in Teaching degrees. Long an all-male institution, Colgate enrolled its first coeducational class in September 1970.

Because Colgate believes undergraduate education is enriched by a diversity of academic experiences, traditional courses in the liberal arts and sciences are reinforced by broad opportunities for independent and off-campus study. In addition to arrangements for independent work in the regular terms, a January Special Studies Period encourages student initiative in projects both on and off campus. Colgate also offers an extensive off-campus study group program in the United States and in several foreign countries, and has exchange and visiting student arrangements with several other colleges. One of the features of Colgate's year-round operation is an annual academic Summer Institute, combining courses, guest lectures, symposia, workshops, film and drama. The 1976 Summer Institute program focuses on the Bicentennial theme of "America: Past and Present."

Colgate University is fully accredited by the Middle States Association. Its curriculum is established around five academic divisions: Humanities, Natural Sciences and Mathematics, Social Sciences, University Studies, and Physical Education, Recreation and Athletics.

MINUTES OF THE 48th CONVENTION

March 19 - 20, 1976

The Forty-Eighth National Convention of Eta Sigma Phi Fraternity convened in Nashville, Tennessee, upon the invitation of Psi Chapter, Vanderbilt University, on Friday, March 19, 1976, with a lecture by Prof. Herbert Benario, Emory University.

The convention on Friday was first welcomed by the president of Psi Chapter, Lissa LeGrand who expressed her thanks to the members of Psi Chapter who had made the convention possible and then turned the meeting over to Megas Prytanis Debbie Callison who called the convention to order. Debbie then expressed her appreciation for the fine work of Psi Chapter and introduced the national officers. A roll call of the chapters present was then called and chapter reports called for.

The chapters which were represented at the convention were:

Eta, Florida State University
Psi, Vanderbilt University
Alpha Delta, Agnes Scott College
Alpha Pi, Gettysburg College
Alpha Sigma, Emory University
Beta Alpha, University of South Dakota
Beta Beta, Furman University
Beta Delta, University of Tennessee
Beta Zeta, St. Louis University
Beta Theta, Hampden-Sydney
Beta Iota, Wake Forest University
Beta Nu, Mary Washington College
Beta Upsilon, Marshall University
Gamma Alpha, Indiana State University
Gamma Theta, Georgetown College
Gamma Iota, Wabash College
Gamma Mu, Westminster College
Gamma Omicron, Monmouth College
Delta Zeta, Colgate University
Delta Sigma, University of California-Irvine
Epsilon Beta, George Washington University
Epsilon Epsilon, Rockford College
Epsilon Eta, Kent State (approved later)

It was then explained that only the chosen delegates registered from each chapter might vote for that chapter and that each chapter only had two votes.

Dr. Roy E. Lindahl, Furman University, then gave the report on the endowment fund. He reported that our financial calendar had been made the same as the one used by the Internal Revenue Service. He said the overall financial position was sound.

Dr. Den Adel, Executive Secretary, added that Professor Bedrick expressed his regrets for not being able to attend and then went on with his official report. He said that he felt that the students should make reactivation of chapters and the creation of new chapters a high priority. He suggested that warning letters should be sent to delinquent chapters so that they could be prevented from becoming inactive. He said that he felt the amount of the scholarship to Athens should be increased to make it equal to the value of the scholarship to Rome, because of the difference in the expense of getting to Athens. He reported on the number of examinations received in the annual sight translation and composition contests and that the price of the Eta Sigma Phi medals were now $12.00, $4.00, and $3.00 for large silver, small silver and bronze. He added that we have received two hundred and seventy-four new members this year and that we as yet had no invitation for next year's convention. Dr. Den Adel concluded by expressing his best wishes for the future success of the organization.

Megas Prytanis Debbie Callison then went over the program for the day and warned that discussion on the amendments up for passage at the convention would be limited. Workshops had originally been scheduled for 4:45 PM, but it was announced that only Long Range Planning would meet at the appointed time. She expressed the wish that a great deal of work could be accomplished at these meetings so that discussion could be limited on the following day. Workshops were named and their chairmen listed. Their purpose was also explained. Phil Stewart was in charge on Time and Place to discuss the site of the next national convention; Kathleen Tohill was in charge of Revision and Expansion which would consider the amendment of Article XI Section I of the constitution; Constitutional Revision was divided into two workshops because of the number of amendments up for consideration, one chaired by Lissa LeGrand for any new revisions which must be in written form by 4:35 that afternoon, and one headed by Debbie Callison to discuss all the other amendments; Long Range Planning was chaired by Leslie Perkins to discuss the problem of the program library, which had been misplaced.

Debbie then presented the report of the Executive Committee Meeting. A motion was made by Vanderbilt passed that discussion be limited to two minutes. The topics which had been discussed in the Executive Committee meeting were what was to become of the program library, what we could do to reactivate chapters, a possible constitutional revision calling for a set number of qualified students in a chapter which applies for membership, whether reactivated chapters should have to send a delegate with the $10.00 fee for readmission, whether the convention should be changed to a bi-ennial affair, and whether it should be made constitutionally possible to sanction the division into two offices of the Secretary and the Editor of the Nuntius. Discussion followed.

Debbie re-read the list of chairmen of the committees and it was suggested that a list of committees and chairmen be posted. Leslie Perkins then spoke on the program library and Debbie spoke on candidates for National Office. All candidates, it was explained, would need a nominating speech and/or a seconding speech. Petitions would not be necessary for nomination this year because there was to be no convivium. All nominations must be made known to Debbie Callison by 9:30 AM the next morning. A request was then made for a motion to limit speeches to three minutes. The motion was made and carried.

There was then a question as to whether more than one candidate could run from one college. It was answered that there was nothing against this in the constitution. The secretary then asked if there were any late delegates who wished to register. Dr. Den Adel then announced that there was present a delegation of students from the Classics Club at Kent State and presented their petition for affiliation with Eta Sigma Phi. Kent State then answered the questions put to them concerning their organization. Debbie then entertained a motion to accept Kent State as Epsilon Eta Chapter. The motion was made and carried. Kent State thanked the convention.

The Megas Prytanis then asked if there was any further business. There being none, she directed us to get in touch with our committee chairmen for the workshops and adjourned the meeting.

The Second General Session of the Forty-Eighth National Convention was called to order at 11:00 AM for a lecture by Meyer Reinhold on "The Classics and a Virtuous Nation in Early America". The entertaining lecture was followed by a hasty lunch in the restaurant located in the auditorium building. The session reconvened at 1:30 PM for a panel discussion of "European Influences in Early American Culture". Making up the distinguished panel were Professor Susan F. Wiltshire of Vanderbilt University, Professor Meyer Reinhold of the University of Missouri-Columbia who spoke on "Young Americans Abroad: 1750-1820", Professor Thomas B. Brumbaugh of Vanderbilt University who spoke on "Classical and French Influences on Early American Architecture", Professor Herbert W. Benario of Emory University who spoke on "Early American Attitudes toward Ancient History" and Professor James S. Patty of Vanderbilt University who spoke on "France and America: Philosophical, Literary, Artistic, and Political Influences".

Following the panel discussion the delegates were treated to a tour of the Parthenon of Nashville and a slide presentation on the Parthenon in Athens at Centennial Park by Professor Ned Nabers of Vanderbilt.

At 4:45 PM the Long Range Planning committee met briefly to discuss the program library and the possibility of regional conventions being held in addition to the national conventions each year.

After committee meetings the delegates met again at 6:45 PM for a Reception at the Divinity School Lounge sponsored by the College of Arts and Sciences of Vanderbilt University, followed by the annual banquet. The delegates were delighted to hear at that time from Gertrude Smith Greenwood, the Honorary President and the address of Dr. H. Lloyd Stow, Professor of Classics, Vanderbilt University. The Executive Secretary presided.

After the banquet the delegates returned to the hotel for the postponed committee meetings to be held in the rooms of the chairmen.

The Third General Session was called to order at 9:35 AM by Megas Prytanis Debbie Callison, who welcomed the delegates again and expressed her appreciation to Dr. Gertrude Smith Greenwood for her attendance. She then asked that the chapter reports be brought forward to the Megas Grammateus, Leslie Perkins. It was then announced by Debbie that if there were no objections there would be a formal distinction between old and new business and that the amendments would be discussed and voted on in the order of their appearance on the information sheet which had been given to each delegate. Hearing no objections, this was passed. It was also announced that Professor Roy E. Lindahl would serve as the official parliamentarian.

Debbie then pointed out that although in the past the national officers had voted on all regular business at convention, that nothing could be found in the constitution to support this and that it would not be continued this year. Dr. Den Adel, as the representative of the Board of Trustees, then presented the recommendations of the Board that the two trustees whose terms had expired, Professor Bernice L. Fox and Professor Roy E. Lindahl, be re-elected for a term of three years. Motion was made to accept the recommendation of the Board of Trustees and it passed unanimously. Motion was then made and passed unanimously to re-elect Dr. Den Adel as Executive Secretary. A motion was then made and passed to re-elect Dr. Lindahl as Editor of the Nuntius. A motion was then made to divide the honorarium for the Executive Secretary and the Editor of the Nuntius and passed. Debbie asked whether there was any further business before we moved on to committee reports. There being none, committee reports were begun.

Kathleen Tohill reported for the Revision and Expansion Committee. [The amendments of this committee and the Constitution Revision Committee will be reported in full in the Winter issue of Nuntius.] The committee made a resolution that the Board of Trustees be allowed to increase the scholarship fund as they saw fit due to increased costs in tuition and travel. Discussion followed on the suggestion concerning the scholarships. A vote was then taken to accept the committee's report and unanimously passed.

Next Phil Stewart reported on the results of the Time and Place Committee, which had received one invitation from Colgate University. Dave Evans then presented his tentative invitation to the convention. A motion was made and seconded to make this the tentative place for the convention next year. A question was asked as to whether three chapters could host the convention together. The answer was yes. The invitation was accepted unanimously.

Next we heard from the Committee on Long Range Planning chaired by Leslie Perkins. Concerning the program library the committee recommended that the program be dropped. Discussion followed. A friendly amendment to the committee's recommendation was made and accepted to give over whatever programs existed in that library to the American Classical League Service Bureau. The recommendation as amended was moved, seconded and passed. As regards regional meetings, the committee recommended that they be held each year in different areas of the country. A friendly amendment was made and accepted to the committee's recommendation that it be specified that these regional meetings be in addition to an annual national meeting. A motion was made to accept the recommendation of the committee and was unanimously defeated. A motion was then made to accept the report of the committee and it passed unanimously.

The floor was then opened for nominations for national office. One was received. A motion was then made to begin the elections with the president. This motion was seconded and passed unanimously. J. Stephen Freedman was nominated for president from Furman University. A motion was made to limit the speeches to one speech per candidate, made either by that person or someone else. The motion was seconded and passed. A motion was made that no speech be required from those running unopposed. There was opposition and the motion was dropped. Steve spoke. A motion was made to elect Steve unanimously. It was seconded but not passed. Steve was elected president with one abstention. Dave Evans, Leslie Perkins and Marla Sue Hendricks were nominated for Megas Hyparchos and all spoke. Dave Evans, Colgate University, was elected.

Cheryl Thomas, Vanderbilt University, was nominated for Megas Grammateus. A motion was made that she be elected unanimously. The motion was seconded and passed.

Lynn Dunnagan, Indiana State University, was nominated for Megas Chrysohyllax along with Sue Hendricks. Both spoke. Lynn Dunnagan was elected.

After installation of the new Grand Officers, the Forty-Eighth National Convention was adjourned by Megas Prytanis Debbie Callison shortly after noon.

Respectfully Submitted,
Leslie Perkins

Professor Bernice L. Fox, a member of our Board of Trustees, has published a Latin translation of Henry Van Dyke's little book, THE STORY OF THE OTHER WISE MAN. This Latin version is available through The American Classical League [Miami University, Oxford, Ohio, 45056]. The book is soft back, with fifty-two pages, including five pages with illustrations. The vocabulary and syntax are comparatively simple for easy reading. This beautiful little Christmas story in Latin would make a delightful gift to a friend—or to yourself! The cost is only $1.50.

I am a junior at Indiana State University on a secondary teaching program majoring in Latin and mathematics. My cumulative average is 3.70 and I belong to Alpha Lambda Delta, am Secretary of ISU Senior Classical League, and am presently working with the Gamma Alpha Chapter of Eta Sigma Phi in our high school extension program. I have also received the freshman and sophomore Lillian Gay Berry Latin awards.

I hope to teach for a short time after graduation and then plan to earn my MA and PhD in the Classics.

Cheryl Thomas
Megas Grammateus

Miss Thomas is a Junior at Vanderbilt University where she is majoring in Greek. Here she is a member of the Alpha Omicron Pi Sorority. She has been involved as a tutor in English as well as serving on the Sarratt Publicity and Concert Committees.

Since her Junior High School days, Miss Thomas has won state and national competitions in Latin. She has been active in both the Junior and Senior Classical Leagues, -and has served as State Secretary for both organizations. She has served as a national officer for the J.C.L. and was awarded the J.C.L. Key of Honor by her local school, Clarksville High.

As a member of the First Presbyterian Church in Clarksville, Tennessee, she has been active on various church committees. During the summer months in Clarksville, she works with the recreation department and the First National Bank.

THE ETA SIGMA PHI SUMMER SCHOLARSHIPS FOR 1976

The Trustees of Eta Sigma Phi Fraternity are pleased to announce that two scholarships will be offered in 1977 to enable one member of Eta Sigma Phi to attend the 1977 Summer Session of the American School of Classical Studies at Athens, Greece, and another to attend the 1977 Summer Session of the American Academy in Rome, Italy.

The Scholarship to the American Academy in Rome will have a value of $1000.00, less the tuition fee remitted by the American Academy.

The Scholarship to the American School of Classical Studies at Athens will have a value of $1000.00 less the tuition fee remitted by the American School.

Six semester hours of credit may be earned at either summer session, which is applicable toward an advanced degree in Classics at most graduate schools, provided advance arrangements have been made.

Selection of candidates for the scholarships is exercised by the Eta Sigma Phi Scholarship Committee, whose members are Professors R. Leon Fitts of Dickinson College, Chairman, Justin Glenn of Florida State University, and Carrie Cowherd of University of Wisconsin-Milwaukee. Enquiries and requests for blanks should be addressed to Professor R. Leon Fitts, Dickinson College, Carlisle, Pa. 17013.

Eligible to apply for the scholarships are Eta Sigma Phi members and alumni who have received a Bachelor's degree since January 1, 1971, or shall have received it in or before June 1977, and who have not yet received a doctoral degree. In selecting the winner of each scholarship the Committee will give attention to the quality of the applicant's work in Greek and Latin and his intention to teach at the secondary school or college level.

The applicant must submit a transcript of his undergraduate work, letters of recommendation and a statement not to exceed 500 words of his purpose and reasons for desiring the scholarship. Applications must be submitted to Professor Fitts by December 16, 1976. The winner of each scholarship will be announced about January 15, 1977.
